PNG Air Conducting Ongoing Risk Assessment in Wewak

Port Moresby, Papua New Guinea – 02/03/2026

PNG Air wishes to advise the public and all valued customers that we are currently undertaking a comprehensive risk assessment in Wewak following recent developments affecting operations in the area.

The safety and wellbeing of our passengers, crew, and ground personnel remain our highest priority. As part of our standard operational procedures, PNG Air is carefully reviewing all relevant safety, security, and operational factors before resuming normal flight services.

Our management team is working closely with the relevant authorities and stakeholders to ensure that all necessary assessments are completed thoroughly and responsibly. We are monitoring the situation closely and will only recommence full operations once we are satisfied that conditions meet our strict safety standards.

PNG Air understands the inconvenience this may cause to our customers and sincerely appreciates the patience and understanding shown during this period. Affected passengers are encouraged to contact our customer service team or their nearest PNG Air office for assistance with rebooking and updated travel information.

We remain committed to restoring normal operations as soon as it is safe and practicable to do so and will continue to provide timely updates as further information becomes available.
